

ALSG Privacy Policy

Advanced Life Support Group, referred to as ALSG in this policy, are registered with the Information Commissioner for the United Kingdom as a Data Controller.

ALSG is committed to protecting your privacy and security. Whenever you provide personal information, ALSG will treat that information in accordance with this policy, ALSG's Data Storage Policy and current UK Data Protection legislation.

When you are asked for personal information on the Websites you are sharing that information with ALSG alone unless stated otherwise. Where ALSG has arranged for another organisation to capture data or to fulfil a service on its behalf, this is carried out under contract in accordance with data protection requirements.

ALSG may use the information you provide for one or more of the following (this list is not exhaustive):

- To set-up and or administer your ALSG profile, including courses attended, courses taught on
- To communicate with you about the work of ALSG
- To deliver learning programmes
- To deliver marketing communications
- To ask for your feedback.

By using the Websites, you agree to accept the ALSG Privacy Policy. ALSG may change this policy from time to time. It is your responsibility to check ALSG's Privacy Policy regularly. You will be deemed to have accepted any amendments to the Privacy Policy if you continue to make use of the Websites after a change to the Privacy Policy has been made.