

Andy Sweetman

Andy Sweetman joins ALSG as Director of Technology. As a strategic technology leader, he is skilled in building high-performing teams and delivering impactful solutions.

Andy has advised leadership on cloud strategy within a $500M+ group and coached acquired companies on best practices. He is also experienced in leading teams and supporting Artificial Intelligence & Machine Learning driven product delivery.

Prior to joining ALSG, Andy was Chief Technology Officer for WDS-SICAP, serving the mobile telecommunications industry and was internally promoted from Head of Product Engineering. He directed the product strategy with respect to their Software-as-a-Service based Customer Experience suite, including innovation, infrastructure, cybersecurity, and compliance.

Andy joins ALSG with a vision to improve the candidate experience and their interaction with ALSG, as well as to support staff and volunteers through technology.

Passionate about innovation, collaboration and technology-driven growth, Andy lives in Dorset and enjoys travelling, motorcycling and staying fit.
