

Kathy Doyle

Kathy Doyle is a retired barrister, having trained at Liverpool University and Gray's Inn, and a part-time Tribunal Judge dealing mainly with disability related Social Security claims. She lectured in a variety of legal subjects, including Law and Medical Ethics, at Manchester Metropolitan University, until her retirement in 2010. For many years she lectured annually at the University of Hong Kong and was a member and latterly chairman of the AstraZeneca Ethics Committee, which evaluated clinical trials conducted at Alderley Park.

She is a Council Member of the Manchester and District Medico-Legal Society and serves as a trustee for a number of charities.