

Stephanie Smith

Stephanie is a retired Emergency Paediatrician and former Clinical Director of Nottingham Children's Hospital. Her impressive career includes chairing the Intercollegiate committee for the Management of Paediatric Emergencies and led on the 2012 edition of the Standards of Care document. Stephanie has always been a leader in the workplace on Patient Safety issues and continues to focus on this in all her current roles. She remains an integral part of the Invited Review Team for the Royal College of Paediatrics and Child Health and was recently awarded as an RCPCH Honorary Fellow.

Since 1996, Stephanie has been an APLS instructor and recently stepped down as Chair of the APLS Working Group, having been in the role since 2018. She enjoys working alongside the dedicated team at ALSG and the enthusiastic working group members and instructors from all around the world.

Stephanie remains committed to paediatric education, continuing to direct APLS courses and teach on GIC courses across the UK. In October 2023, she stepped into a pivotal role, taking over the reins from Professor Kevin Mackway-Jones as ALSG Chair of Trustees.
