“

Highly relevant and timely course, focused on the practical aspects of caring for children and young people presenting acutely with mental health problems and/or distress.

It was great to be a part of a truly multiprofessional course with opportunities to learn from each other. Practising conversations with young people in simulations with actors was invaluable.

I would recommend this course to all health professionals working with children and young people presenting with acute mental health distress. It was real-world, engaging and highly relevant to clinical practice.
